SELF MANAGING LEADERSHIP® PROGRAMME

OXFORD LEADERSHIP

Turbulent Times Call for Extraordinary Leadership

Effective leaders know that times of crises can be opportunities to steer themselves, their organizations and their teams, in a clear and constructive new direction. A lack of personal and strategic focus makes this process more challenging.

Effective leadership is not simply about strategy, it is also about character and the relationship between the leader and the team. These relationships are fundamentally built upon having the right conversations, with the right people, at the right time.

How the SML Will Benefit you and your Organization

The Self Managing Leadership program is one of the world's most successful leadership development programs, with over 300,000 participants to date. The program addresses and develops the character of a leader through a process of self discovery and action planning.

The SML program provides leaders with the tools they need to manage themselves first, as a springboard to aligning and guiding their people.

Through careful introspection and guided facilitation, you will:

- » identify your negative and positive patterns/habits and behaviours that are present in your life.
- » identify your purpose or that which gives meaning to your life.
- » create a future vision for your life in three key areas: your role as a leader, your role in your family/community life and your personal life.
- » recognise and put in place a plan to overcome barriers which are holding you back from becoming all that you can be.
- » emerge with concrete strategies for managing yourself better, your relationships, your career and your organisation.
- » leave with a framework for self management and personal accountability and with a plan for embedding your learning in practice after the course
