Dear Nicolette,

I have had the privilege of working with you as my coach over the last year.

The direct, honest and open rapport you established with me, helped me to recognise and identify the behaviours I needed to modify to improve my leadership skills, strengthen my relationships with my peers and team and act at a more strategic level.

You also helped me to realize I needed to focus on my personal values and priorities more to improve my work life balance.

When you observed me within a team environment the feedback you provided me helped me realize the impact my leadership style and behaviour had on the team-the insight I gained from these sessions has helped me to improve the relationships, communication and trust among my team.

I moved into a position as a marketing director over a very short period and working with you helped me to quickly identify the areas I needed to focus on to build team capability, enhance my own performance & build my personal confidence.

I would highly recommend you as a coach, the feedback and advice you have given me allowed me to focus on my self and realise and believe in my own dreams and potentials

Yours sincerely

Shira Evan
